Harvard Medical School Promotions

Megha Gupta, MD, MS, Maternal-Fetal Medicine, was promoted to Assistant Professor of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Biology at Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Gupta earned her medical degree from The Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine. She completed her residency at Penn State Health Milton S. Hershey Medical Center, her fellowship at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center in Los Angeles, and is board-certified in Maternal-Fetal Medicine by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology. Dr. Gupta's clinical focus is caring for critically ill pregnant patients with thrombotic microangiopathies and applying maternal point-of-care ultrasound (POCUS). Her research explores the application of maternal POCUS in high-acuity pregnant and postpartum patients. She is the Principal Investigator of a study funded by the William F. Milton Fund to verify the feasibility of maternal POCUS and establish normal values for maternal lung, heart, and abdominal views during pregnancy and postpartum. Dr. Gupta is also the Principal Investigator for a Massachusetts Life Sciences Center-funded project to assess left ventricular ejection fraction in pregnant and postpartum patients using a novel handheld ultrasound device with an artificial intelligence-assisted algorithm.

Stephen Wagner, MD, Academic Specialist in General Obstetrics and Gynecology, was promoted to Assistant Professor of Obstetrics, Gynecology and Reproductive Biology at Harvard Medical School.

Dr. Wagner earned his medical degree from The Pennsylvania State University College of Medicine and completed his residency at Penn State Health Milton S. Hershey Medical Center. He has a distinguished record of mentoring and training medical students and recently received the 2024 CREOG National Faculty Award for Excellence in Resident Education.

Recognized as one of Boston Magazine's 2025 list of Top Doctors, Dr. Wagner is also a member of Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society, The American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology, and the Society for Academic Specialists in General Obstetrics and Gynecology, serving as member of the Research Committee and Chair of their Research Awards Subcommittee.

Boston Magazine's 2025 Top Doctors

Congratulations our OB/GYN physicians for being named to Boston Magazine's 2025 list of Top Doctors!

APGO Scholars and Leaders Program

We are proud to celebrate Tracy Byrne, MD, on her graduation from the APGO Academic Scholars & Leaders (ASL) Program! This prestigious 15-month program equips OB/GYN faculty with the skills to excel as educators, program administrators, and leaders in medical education. Through a rigorous curriculum taught by nationally recognized faculty, ASL scholars develop expertise in curriculum design, instructional methods, performance evaluation, and evidence-based decision-making in education.

Dr. Celeste Royce: HMFP's 2025 Outstanding Physician Colleague Award Recipient

We are proud to share that Celeste Royce, MD, has been named one of six recipients of HMFP's 2025 Outstanding Physician Colleague Award. This peer-nominated honor recognizes HMFP and APHMFP physicians who have gone above and beyond to support their colleagues through guidance, encouragement, or assistance during a time of personal or professional need. In Dr. Royce's nomination, one colleague shared, "She supports and advocates for the needs of her colleagues, including myself, to achieve our common goals."

We would also like to recognize and celebrate our outstanding OB/GYN colleagues who were also nominated for this award: Meredith Atkins, MD; Huma Farid, MD; Megha Gupta, MD; and Brett Young, MD.
